Wright-Mix Material Acquires Pyro-Chem Corporation

Wright-Mix Material, the central Appalachian coalfield's premiere toll blending and bagging company, has acquired Pyro-Chem, a long-standing and well-known company started in Colorado, now based in South Point, Ohio producing pre-mixed, fire-retardant ventilation sealants for the underground mining industry. The acquisition of Pyro-Chem and their line of MSHA approved products was completed August 18, 2022

"Pyro-Chem has been a significant material's producer in the US mining industry for decades and we felt that their bucketed product line fit well with the premium line of mix material products that we are already producing." said Wright Industries President and CEO, Shannon Wright. "This acquisition is a great way for Wright-Mix Material to move into the bucketed product market and we are excited for the new venture."

Wright-Mix Material is currently servicing multiple industries across America through their state-of-the-art facility which produces, blends, and bags reinforced concrete, masonry products, grout, shotcrete/gunnite, and rock dust, among many others. The acquisition of Pyro-Chem adds a new premium product to that portfolio.

"Our operation in Logan, Wv. and our current expansion into the Kentucky Enterprise Industrial Park in Pikeville Ky. has prepared Wright-Mix Material to take on Pyro-Chem's long-standing products and push them to a new level of success in both the commercial and mining industries," stated Wright Industries COO, Kendall Wright. "We are excited to see what the future holds with this acquisition and how our previous experience can help grow this already strong brand."

About Pyro-Chem

Pyro-Chem has been a staple company in the mining industry across America since the 1970's, providing a line of fire proofing products designed to stop air leakage on underground stoppings in a variety of applications and settings.
